LAST FOR THE FIRST came up Friday, when City Commissioner Ralph Kirk, the last to qualify for the city election on Sept. 12, announced he would be running for his last time.

The race is on

BELLE GLADE-It was the last for the first Friday when incumbent City Commissioner Ralph Kirk qualified for re-election, followed immediately by Mayor-Commissioner Thomas L. Altman, who qualified for re-election to his own at-large seat.

"Win, lose or draw," said Kirk, who was waiting to qualify at the city hall as early as 7:30 a.m., "this is the last time for me. This will be my fifth term if I make it and ten years is long enough for anybody."

Kirk and Altman were both ready to qualify a half hour before City Clerk June Boglioli appeared for her regular workday. Both were qualified before 8:30 a.m. and they were the only two candidates to qualify for the city election the first day of the qualification period.

Because of several new state laws, it would be virtually impossible for anyone to qualify without first obtaining a packet of information from Mrs. Boglioli some time before completing the process. Mrs. Boglioli said only one other person in the city received a packet as of Monday morning.

Kirk, as he mentioned, is running for his fifth consecutive two-year term in Group Two. He has served one one-year term as mayor-commissioner. He's a Penninsular Life Insurance Agent and he and his wife, Ruby, make their home at 132 NE Third St.

Altman, running in Group One, is running for his third consecutive term of office. He is ending his first one-year term as mayor. He resides with his wife, Deborah, at 948 Stillwell Rd. and is presently unemployed.

Both the candidates are running for at-large seats, which means anyone in the city, no matter which borough they live in, may qualify against either of the two incumbents.

Prospective candidates must be residents of the city, qualified electors, must file a financial disclosure statement with Mrs. Boglioli and John Dunkle, Clerk of the Circuit Court and pay a $25 filing fee.

The only other person in the city who has said he will definitely run in the Sept. 12 election is former commissioner Aubrey Farmer, who said Monday he will qualify for the Group Two seat, which will put him against Kirk.

Mrs. Boglioli said there are other requirements for candidates this year which are new and advised anyone thinking about running for one of the two seats to come in and see her well before they intend to qualify.

The city clerk said the new requirements will virtually eliminate the traditional ploy on the part of some candidates who have waited in the past until the last minute of the qualification period before filing to run.

The qualifying period runs until Aug. 23. The election will be Sept. 12, the same day as the state-wide first primary, and the runoff, if one is required, will be Sept. 19. This will be the second city election in which voters will use the Votomatic voting machine rather than the old-style machines.

Anyone who isn't registered to vote has until Aug. 12 to get their names on the voting rolls. Registration can not be done in the city hall. Voters must register at

DAVID THOMPSON

Local game officer named top in state

BELLE GLADE-A local wildlife officer was honored last week by being named the Outstanding Wildlife Officer in the State by the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission.

Officer David Thompson received the honor at a meeting of the Commission in Punta Gorda Friday. He was selected from a possible field of over 175 eligible officers.

This is the second time to be nominated for Thompson, the first coming two years ago when he was the Everglades Region nominee. Each of the state's five regions nominates an outstanding officer from its force and the winner is selected from the nominees. That year, a Panhandle officer was selected.

As the state's Outstanding Officer, Thompson will attend a meeting of the Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife in Virginia as Florida's representative.

In addition to this honor, he was also named the Outstanding Wildlife Officer for 1977-78 by the Dade County Airboat and Half-track Association earlier this year.

He also holds the Commission's Distinguished Service Citation, an award he and five other officers received in 1972 when they pulled a man from a wrecked liquid hydrogen truck near Tallahassee. At that time, the men were

Water quality rule change is adopted

BELLE GLADE-What could be the most controversial water pollution control rules package in the history of the state was adopted last Thursday in Miami by the state Environmental Regulation Commission (ERC).

The package is formally known as the proposed revisions to Chapter 17-3 and Chapter 17-4 of the Florida Administrative Code and the adoption of Chapter 17-6 of the same code but it's better known locally as the water quality rule change.

Ironically, the rule change was adopted by the ERC on the same day the local Chamber of Commerce decided to urge Gov. Reubin Askew to include area people in representation of a task force commissioned to develop language for inclusion in Chapter 17-3 addressing stormwater issues relevant to agriculture and urban areas.

Members of the Chamber board of directors expressed concern there were no people from the Glades named to the 22-member task force and Executive Secretary Jewel Crane was directed to write the governor and ask for local appointments.

Tallahassee attorney Philip Parsons, who is retained by the Florida Sugar Cane League said he feels the agricultural interests can "live with" the rule change adopted Thursday by the ERC.

Parsons also represents other area interests such as the Chamber and area cities, which passed resolutions to that effect.

Parsons said there have been substantial changes made over the past several months. "I never expected to get all those improvements," he said. "It is a compromise package that clarified problems in the existing rule."

He said some of the major accommodations made by the ERC and the Department of Environmental Regulation include a promise by the DER staff to re-classify all the major canals in the Everglades Agricultural Area as agricultural (Class IV) instead of the Fishing and Recreation (Class III) they now are classified; the removal of Lake Okechobee as a National Water Resource and the inclusion of a requirement for anyone wanting to amend present practices to draw up an economic hardship statement.

"The important thing," Parsons said, "is that the people concerned, and anyone connected with farming should be concerned, to read the document," to be sure they know what it says and that they can live with it.

He said copies can be obtained by writing the Department of Environmental Regulation; Twin Towers Office Building; 2600 Blairstone Road; Tallahassee; 32301.

Parsons said the rule change, although it has been approved by the ERC, isn't final yet because it still has to be approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

"The EPA has 90 days to examine it and either approve it or disapprove it," Parsons said, adding the federal agency could also RAISING HIS HAND, incumbent Mayor-Commissioner Tom Altman takes the oath of a commission candidate administered by City Clerk June Boglioli on the opening day of the qualifying period Friday.

City fires engineers

BELLE GLADE-Members of the city commission decided Monday night to begin professional negotiations to hire a consulting engineering firm to replace Barker, Osha and Anderson, the firm which has been the city's consultant for almost two years.

The matter came up during the workshop session. Mayor Tom Altman asked for a report on a possible conflict of interest regarding the engineers during the commissioners' last regular meeting.

Altman said at the time he was concerned because Barker, Osha and Anderson also represent the Palm Beach County Commission in a water pollution control study and the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority in a proposed solid waste disposal facility for all western Palm Beach County.

He reiterated his concern Monday when he noted that the two projects could cost a total of $20 million and asked the other commissioners, "How do we ask them if the city should get involved in a program they've drawn up?"

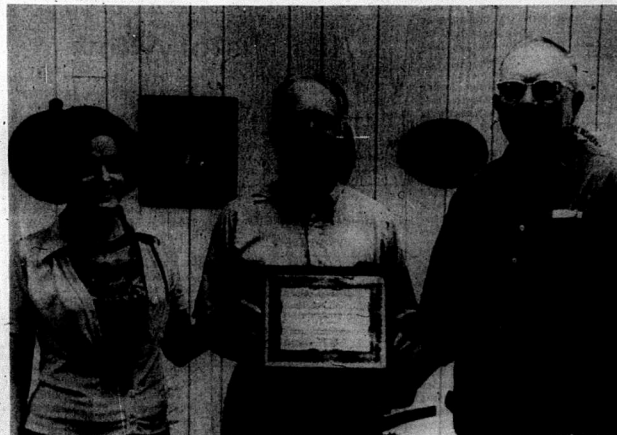

The mayor noted the city and the city's taxpayers would be locked in to both of the plans, once they're accepted, for years.

"I consider both Charlie Anderson and Dick Ormon personal friends," Altman said, "but I think this (the conflict) is enough of a reason to look for new engineers and I think they'll understand."

Altman noted that even though he knew of the firm's involvement in the 201 study when the commission decided in August 1976 to hire BO&A, he thought at the time

BRUCE BOWE (center) was presented a certificate of appreciation last week by Mrs. Jewel Crane and S.M. McAllister on behalf of the Belle Glade Beautification Committee after building his new office building at Main and Avenue A. Bowe said the plaques on the wall were once used to identify homes and businesses of people who carried fire insurance. No plaque, no fire protection.

We have begun working on a special section of the Herald and Observer set to come out in mid-September and dealing with the hurricanes of 1928.

And we need help. We need personal accounts from everyone we can find who went through that hurricane for inclusion in the section. If you were in it, or know of someone who was, please give us a call at 996-2056 and we'll get in touch with them, tape record their memories, and write a story about their experiences.

The 1928 Hurricane was one of the worst major disasters ever to take place in the United States. Well over 2,000 people lost their lives and everybody in the Glades was affected.

Lawrence Will's "Okeechobee Hurricane" makes fascinating reading and is a great help in getting us started, but the more people we can include, the better.

So if you know of someone, or you yourself had experiences in the storm, please give us a call.

By the time this comes out, the anticipated strike by the U.S. Postal workers may or may not be a fact. Workers are asking for a 14 percent salary boost along with other fringe benefits.

Locally, it's doubtful anyone from our post offices will walk out in the event of a strike. It's extremely commendable that our folks put service above self. But one said, if the increase and benefits are granted, he certainly won't turn them down. I can't blame him or anyone else for that.

Incoming mail, however, will be affected if the strike is a reality. Postal managers will be forced to handle first and second class mail, but third class will likely suffer. If things really get bad, then the Army will be called upon to supply men and women for the job.

In examining the issues, postal workers receive a minimum salary of over $6.50 per hour, according to a recent news broadcast. That's pretty good, especially in view of the job security they have as well.

What they want is more salary and even more job security. And the postal system continues to run deeply in the red each year and is heavily subsidized by the federal government. One postal manager said if these demands were met, the cost of the first class letter would be doubled within two years.

One only has to look toward recent history to discover the bad points of these increasing demands. Witness the railroads. The unions have virtually total control here and as a consequence, the railroads have declined and are still on the downhill slide. Few make profits for their shareholders.

When costs become too high for shipping by rail, trucking stepped in and took the lion's share of non-bulk items. This trend is already evident in the mails. In many cities, bills are delivered by private individuals hired by companies at less cost than using the mail. If first class costs continue to rise, there will be even more of this.

Parcel post continues to decline as well. United Parcel Service does the job quickly and efficiently in every city and community in the country. This tells me that the argument that the mail must be controlled by the government is all wet. If carriers for UPS can deliver packages at a profit, some private individual can set up a mail service and run it at a profit as well. If the costs rise enough to make it worthwhile.

And it'll happen. Like it or not, the post office is just as subject to competition as everybody else. Then there will be those who want to get out over wages but out of a job, maybe?

Unions, public and private, must face the responsibility they have not only in increasing the salaries and benefits of their members, but also in working with management to keep costs in line and consequent, insuring their membership with a place to work.

A union contract isn't much good if the business involved is bankrupt or forced to decrease service to the point where a massive layoff is inevitable.

BY DEAN JONES

Our bucketmouth ambassador

It would be nice to know that an official as visible as United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young would act responsibly instead of mouthing off lies designed to discredit the country he supposedly represents.

It would also be nice to know that when an official as visible as Andrew Young makes such asinine statements as he did last week about the "thousands" of political prisoners in the United States, not to mention his absurd charge that the coalition government in Rhodesia is responsible for a massacre of missionaries in that country, he'd get his comeuppance.

It would be nice but politics doesn't work that way. If Young had been anyone else...General John Singlaub, say, he would've been sacked long ago.

But Young isn't someone else. Young is President Jimmy Carter's friend. Young is black. Young is a charismatic Black and Patricia Harris notwithstanding, Young is considered by many Blacks to be the only Black appointed by Carter to a Cabinet-level position.

As long as Jimmy Carter is President, Young isn't going anywhere. Carter won't fire Young because, even if he were to hire another Black person to replace Young, Carter won't take a chance to alienating more Black voters...even when by not doing so, his standing will decrease even further among responsible voters.

This isn't the way it should be but it is reality, as distasteful as reality often is. The only way we see Young being fired is by impeachment and it was disappointing to see our own Paul Rogers move to table the impeachment bill when it came before the House of Representatives.

We may as well brace ourselves for two and a half years of an irresponsible loudmouth representing us in the United Nations, accepting as the only solace the realization the U.N. post isn't really that important anyway except as a forum for every tinhorn representative of a two-bit country to sound off in a fruitless debating society.

And as grim as that prospect is, things could be worse. Carter could have appointed Young as Secretary of State and he could have been sounding off his absurdities directly to the Soviet SALT negotiators.

We also have the consolation that as distasteful as Young's remarks are to the average citizen, we can openly voice our frustrations while Carter has to show his famous grin and bear it.

Garbage carts

Prospects of the city going to the mobile totter garbage collection system being experimented with right now aren't looking too bright.

This is the case despite the fact it has been overwhelmingly accepted by the residents using the new system. We understand that a count made Friday showed that of 600 carts included in the pilot project, 46 still hadn't been removed from curbside.

We also understand that at least four of those carts belonged to persons who have signed petitions objecting to the system and have vowed not to touch the carts during the 60 day trial period.

That'll teach 'em, by gum. We said there would be carts left out to destroy the beauty of the neighborhood and there they are.

There's even one in front of our house.

Welfare work

St. Lucie County farmers, we understand, are more than a little miffed at "droves of able-bodied workers in line for food stamps when they can't find workers to harvest their crops."

And adding insult to injury, St. Lucie County Farm Bureau President J. Brantley Shirard said, is the fact that more than 200 county farm workers applied for out-of-work pay last week and not one was referred for a job.

There has got to be a breakdown in the system when there are jobs paying as much as $50 a day, and no one to fill them. Shirard said, "Government employees are not doing their jobs because employees, employers and taxpayers are all on the losing end when people are out of work."

It's simply not fair to taxpayers when their money is being used to keep able-bodied workers on the welfare dole," he said.

And what kind of an answer did the St. Lucie County citizens get when they held a meeting last week with everyone concerned?

Hal LeMieux, manager of employment service; Maynard Clayton, manager of the food stamp office and Dan Wasserman, manager of the unemployment compensation office all assured the Farm Bureau board they recognized the problem and would take action to find solutions.

Promises, promises. Unless the farmers have been keeping their need for workers a great, dark secret, these public bureaucrats (we'll refer to them as public servants when they earn it) must have had a glimmering of the problem for some time.

The solution, of course, may be simply too simple to be practical. All the bureaucrats need to do is the job they were hired to do, namely; maintain some kind of relations with the farmers to find who needs workers; maintain some kind of relations with the workers coming in for unemployment compensation and correlate the two, sending workers who need jobs to farmers who need workers instead of routing them to the unemployment claims office and the food stamp office.

But that is almost certainly too simplistic so we'll wait for the bureaucrats and their apologists, the Cadillac liberals, to come back with the complex logic and reasoning about why that wouldn't, just couldn't, work.

In the meantime, we'll hold our collective breath waiting for one of the bureaucrats to come up with the grand solution.

Hope we don't turn purple while we're waiting.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

July 24, 1958

Florida has 22 more cases of polio than for the same time last year, according to reports. Three quarters of a million folks under 40 have failed to get the Salk shots.

The early hot weather in Florida, which is the time of year for polio is the cause for our early entrance into the to-be period by doctors. All children should have polio shots.

The city of Belle Glade received a check for $7,143 for its share of cigarette tax for the month of May from a total state collection of $2,151,000.

Will Rogers said it a long time ago. You want to get maximum chuckles with minimum effort, buy a newspaper and I don't mean for a comic page.

Noticed in a news story a few days ago about Chicago's number one coffin being on the run again. Seems Gerald Cooper, the unquestioned record holder (and I think Guinness Book of World Records oughta be notified) picked up a total of 780 parking tickets between 1973 and last year, without paying a single one of 'em.

I used to think my old college roommate held the record at Gainesville but I'll have to admit Ron was a piker compared to Mr. Cooper. Besides, Ron finally paid off his tickets. It was the question of paying 'em off or not getting the old sheepskin.

But as harsh as that would've been, I don't really know if it was as bad as the $34,500 fine slapped on Scofield Number Uno by Chicago Judge Richard Dowdle, which is probably another record for the Messers Guinness to consider.

But if a $34,500 parking fine would make a whooper of a news story in itself, that wasn't all of it. Cooper was supposed to have reported a week later to pay the first $1,000 of the fine, he didn't show up.

So-o-o, the good judges put out a contract on Cooper. It wasn't exactly a Wanted: Dead or Alive type thing but it might as well have been because that's the way Cooper treated it. He still hasn't been found yet.

What tickles my curiosity though is whether or not he's collecting any more parking tickets since he's been on the lam from the slammer.

And talking about laughing at the law, or scoffing at it as scofflaws and politicians are so wont to do, I was reminded of Mr. Cooper's career the other day when the first candidates showed up in June. But in office to qualify for the Sept. 12 city election.

I figured I'd get a jump on the polls by showing up at 7:45 or there abouts but I should've known better because looking into the dark office of the city clerk, I heard a voice behind me asking how things were going. Turned around and there was Hizzner himself, winding up the paperwork demanded of any candidate these days.

I'd no more than settled into a chair when he came Claude Tindall to watch the fun of opening day of the hunting season, for votes that is. Claude said he'd expected to find Ralph Kirk there too and the mayor let him know right quick he and Ralph both had been in the parking lot at 7:30.

Got to talking about all the new forms candidates have to fill out now and Tom and Claude agreed the financial disclosure forms don't amount to a hill of beans so long as protecting the voters. They said they weren't any less crooked this year than they were last year or the year before that and somebody I forgot who, allowed as how graft-is as great as ever.

Could've even been Ralph because he'd wandered in while we were contemplating the vagaries of political life.

I had agreed because I can recall several thousands of dollars being spent in city elections when only hundreds were listed in the campaign financial disclosure forms.

The whole thing works something like the professor at the university who objected like the devil when the board of regents wanted him to take an oath, saying he didn't advocate the violent overthrow of the government and turned right around and made us students take an oath we wouldn't cheat on exams.

Course the thing about financial disclosure, just like most laws, is that it won't stop a crook anyway. It might make him work harder to break the law and get away with it but laws are really aimed at stopping honest people from belly-aching up to the public trough and doing something they hadn't oughta.

Take the temptation away as it were.

South Bay bank is burglarized

SOUTH BAY - The South Bay branch of the Bank of Belle Glade

was robbed last week, barely three weeks after it was opened, and an estimated $500 in coin was taken from a teller's locker.

Police reported entry was made into the new bank branch through a window which was broken with a piece of concrete at about 3:30 a.m. last Thursday morning.

No arrest have been made but the robbery is still being investigated by the South Bay Police Department, the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Sheriff's deputies and officers from the South Bay and Belle Glade Police Departments responded when an alarm was set off, according to bank President W. Wayne Mikell.

Capt. Frank Fogelman of the Sheriff's Department said crime scene investigators have indicated there were two or more people involved in the robbery.

Christian Comments

Many Christians believe that Sunday School attendance is sufficient for learning Bible truths. Or many parents will put their children in a Christian school. These are both good things to do. It's true a child can learn a lot over the years in a good Sunday School program. A more fortunate child, attending a good Christian school can receive much valuable instruction. But is it enough? Studies made have tended to show that the primary influence comes from the parents where religion is concerned. It has to be a part of the parent's value system for the child to see it as valuable.

Most people are not very devoted to anything today, except to self and a few pet projects. Many times there is great devotion to purchasing a home, new furniture, fashionable clothes, cars, etc. None of these are wrong in and of themselves unless we become devoted to them. The dictionary defines devotion as, "to dedicate, consecrate; to give up or apply oneself, or one's time, energy to some purpose activity of person." We all need to examine ourselves occasionally to discover where our devotion lies. We are to have "a sincere and pure devotion of Christ." (I Corinthians 11:39) It is no accident that time spent in prayer and Bible reading is called devotional time. That which we spend out time and energy on is that which we are devoted to. When we spend time and energy with God, praying, reading His Word, and sharing, we are showing our devotion to God. When we do this with our families, we are teaching our children that God is important. A valuable experience for any family, person, or group is to examine their values, taking a good look at how they spend their time, energy, talents, etc. In doing this, many times we will uncover our value system.

Listing those items according to their priorities can be helpful in truly discovering what is important to us. What we parents see as important will be the things our children view as important.

As busy as we are today we must not allow anything to stand in the way of spiritual training. If we neglect it in the later years. Sure your child will need to be born again. Your children will need to find that new life in Christ for themselves someday, but how much easier that will be if they have the word of God in their hearts.

By Bill Anderson
Pastor, First Baptist Church

The Bible states "train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." What a promise, yes, but like all promises in God's word something is required from us in order to see that promise fulfilled. We are to raise our children "in the nurture and the admonition of the Lord." Then when they are old they will not depart from it.

How do we bring our children up on the nurture and the admonition of the Lord? We are to teach our children "the whole counsel of God," as they are ready to receive it. In the early years we would emphasize the Love of God and later begin to teach them about God's justice and righteousness. As they begin to recognize the difference between right and wrong, we would teach them the Biblical doctrine of sin, and the fact that Christ died for their sins. The important thing to remember is that we continuously teach these truths daily to our children in a spirit of love and gentleness.

Put on the Full Armour

"Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God" . . .

In Paul's letter to the Ephesians, he makes a comparison of the children of God and warriors. He says that our loins should be girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness. He makes many more comparisons that exhort us to a proper life. Another thing that Paul urges is that we gather together and worship the Lord. No part of our armour is greater than regular church attendance. Much strength for the week is derived from worshiping with others.

Complete your suit of armour . . . attend church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long survive and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The difference between these two settings can save you up to 40% on your air-conditioning costs.

One thermostat is set at 78 degrees. The other at 73. The difference of 5 degrees may seem like no difference at all. Fact is, even one degree counts in the cost of cooling. Approximately 8% per degree, in the average fully air-conditioned home!

You can be very comfortable at 78 degrees. And also save on air conditioning costs. So consider re-setting your thermostat. And save up to 40% on cooling costs.

Here are other tips on how to keep your cool (and your bill down). Use the most effective insulation. FPL's Watt-Wise Living™ program recommends the R-19 level of insulation in ceilings. Properly installed, it saves considerably on cooling costs if your house is fully air-conditioned.

Another important point: during the hot months you should change the filters in air conditioners. At least once a month.

Weather strip doors and windows. Use light colors on walls and roof to reflect the sun. Shade windows. Shade air conditioning units with shrubs, but don't block the air flow.

Solicitation ordinance needs work

BELLE GLADE—The Chamber of Commerce board of directors moved last week to see what could be done to tighten up existing city laws on solicitors.

Chamber President Dale Stapp said he'd been approached in his office at Florida Power & Light Corp. by a young woman who virtually demanded the change in his pockets.

Stapp also recalled he'd encountered a woman in a wheel chair at the city Post Office and thought to himself she couldn't get up the step, only to discover she was asking everyone who entered or left for donations.

The board voted to ask the city what can be done to stop these types of solicitors, singling out solicitors for the Unification Church, or Moonies, as being particularly offensive.

Mrs. Renee Lee, with the planning department in the city, is in charge of issuing permits to peddlers and solicitors. She said the normal way of determining whether permits would be issued would be if the city receives a letter on letterhead stationery from a legitimate charity organization naming the person or persons who will be doing the soliciting.

Mrs. Lee said churches fall under the charitable organization category and as long as they are legitimate, she has little recourse but to grant the permits.

There are some guidelines about where they can ask for donations. Mrs. Lee said, for instance, no solicitors are allowed at Glades Plaza and any private business can prevent solicitors from coming into their places of business.

She also said that while the solicitors have a right to solicit on a sidewalk, they have no right to block the entrance of any business to ask for donations.

Firefighting costs to be raised out of city

BELLE GLADE—The cost for homeowners outside the city for the Belle Glade Fire Department to answer a call will almost triple once a resolution authorized Monday is adopted.

The commissioners decided during a workshop session to increase the bill for a one-hour fire outside the city, which would use two trucks, four paid men, four call-in men and four volunteers, from $90 to $270.

Fire Chief A.E. "Pete" Webb told the commissioners the rates for fires outside the city are obsolete and taxpayers are not paying the difference between the $90 bill for the hypothetical call and the $158 actual estimate cost.

"The city loses about $68 for each call," he said. "If we go to the proposed plan, we'll be making about $62." The commissioners decided to go with the proposed plan with the one exception of the charge for the trucks to $75 an hour from the current $25 instead of the original proposal of $50 an hour.

Webb said the number of calls outside the city number about the same as those inside the city about eight per month, and the bills presented didn't pay half the actual cost to the city of responding.

He explained that even if a call lasts only 15 minutes, while the firefighters at the station don't actually cost the city more money, the backup crew of professionals called in to man the station while the other crew is at the fire are paid for a minimum of two hours.

Volunteers are paid a flat $15 per call, whether the call is for five minutes or five hours. In the hypothetical one-hour call, the city would collect a total of $20 for all eight professionals and $20 for four volunteers. The cost to the city for the 12 men would total $108, $60 more than collected. If the bill is paid and City Finance Director Frank Anderson said the collection, except for the Belle Glade Housing Authority and the sugar mill, is very low.

In other business, the commission:

- Decided to allow retiring employees to remain on the city's health insurance roll. This came at the request of Frank Anderson, who said it would continue the coverage for retired employees between their retirement and the age of 65, when they can get Medicare.

Anderson said he has been asked by retiring employees recently while they can do to get health insurance and the only thing he's been able to tell them was to, "go out and get yourself a policy and pay through the nose until you're 65."

He said he's checked with the city's insurance carrier and found there would be no problem as long as the premiums are paid. He said the premium would be approximately $300 per year.

The commissioners agreed to allow retirees the option of continuing on the rolls as long as they pay the premiums. The retirees would also have the option of swapping off benefits such as sick days or vacation time accrued to pay the premiums.

He said he has the understanding that if the EPA approves the tough requirements in the rule change and disapproves the sections providing relief to agricultural interests, the ERC will "go back to the drawingboards and may start from scratch."

"We have word the EPA may not approve the economic statement part," Parsons said.

The Tallahassee attorney said that while there are no local people on the storm drainage task force, agriculture is well represented, citing Barry Baldwin, a former United States Sugar Corp. employee now associated with the Agricultural Engineering Department of the Institute of Food and Agricultural Science at the University of Florida and several other agriculturally related persons.

In a letter to a third party, DER Secretary Jay Landers said he had invited Sugar Cane Growers of Florida Cooperative President George Wedgworth to participate in the task force but Wedgworth, who is also chairman of the Florida Sugar Cane League's Environmental Committee, said Tuesday he had never been contacted on the matter.

Wedgworth said he was aware the meeting was taking place in Miami last Thursday but he couldn't attend because he had been previously committed to attending a South Florida Water Management District meeting in West Palm Beach on the same day, when a study was being released by the district.

"I haven't had a chance to talk to Phil Parsons," Wedgworth said, "or Mercer Fearington (another attorney also representing the League and who is a member of the task force) but if Phil says we can live with it, they must have improved it."

that would be advantageous to the city, he said he has changed his mind since then.

City Manager Robert Sanders said he had already discussed the possibility of hiring new engineers with City Attorney John Baker and was told it would probably take a minimum of three months and probably longer to hire a new firm.

The contract with BO&A allows either the firm or the city to terminate the relationship with 30 days notice. The commission directed Sanders to contact the firm and notify them of the city's desire to terminate the contract, "and if we get them during the interim, we'll contact them."

In another engineer-related problem, the commission agreed to a compromise concerning "unacceptable" roads in Ranchero subdivision. The staff had recommended to the commission during the last workshop session to not accept the streets' dedication because of what was described as an inferior surface.

City Manager Robert Sanders said the developer of Ranchero, Michael Zumpf, had wanted a change to respond to the staff's charges and this was the first time Zumpf had had such a chance.

After some discussion about whether the streets would hold up or not and whose fault the mismanagement was, Zumpf suggested the city delay accepting the streets until six months after he completes the construction of the final two years in the subdivision, about a year from now.

If they're not holding up then," he said, "I'll resurface them." The commissioners agreed, providing Zumpf signs an agreement to that effect.

Youths may intern in proposed program

BELLE GLADE—Area youngsters could get a chance to intern with the city, learning new skills and helping the city work forces, if a plan proposed by Licio Cubano Jose Marti bears fruit.

After meeting with three members of the Cuban club in a workshop session Monday night, city commissioners directed City Manager Robert E. Sanders to come up with a proposal to use youths in the rough age brackets of 13 to 18.

One of the visitors said he had become interested after his 13-year old son had gone all over town attempting to find a job for the summer, without success.

He said he had taken the boy to the Agricultural Research and Education Center and proposed a plan which would allow his son to work without pay in a sort of on-the-job training situation.

Jesus Garcia, another club member, commented one thing which is worrying other club members is that for nine months of the year, the children are provided with a good school system, "to get good and then they have three months to get rotten."

He said he'd taken on a 12-year old boy several years ago at his service station. "I started off paying him $25 a week and he wasn't earning that. By the time he was 16, he was earning more than $100 a week and was doing everything around the station."

"When he was 17," Garcia went on, "his father brought his own station and took him away from me. After a couple of paychecks, his father forgot about him and a year later, he was arrested, right here in this town. That's what neglect will do."

Mayor Tom Altman said he was excited about the concept, one which the Cubans said is already in use in Miami, and thought the city might introduce a program which would combine a working internship with recreation.

Commissioner William Greer noted that a number of the estimated 120 youths the Cubans were talking about might have qualified for the CETA or SPEDY programs, where kids go to school in the mornings and work in the afternoons.

For the city's program, Sanders suggested using the youths on special projects such as maintaining the median stripes on Main Street, working on proposed trail bike paths and a proposed park at the Belle Glade Airport.

The city manager said the problem with scattering the youths through the various departments of the city would be that they would require supervision, taking employees' time which doesn't exist, and while the city could save money by using non-paid workers, the savings would disappear if the workers weren't controlled.

Garcia suggested the city could keep the kids' attention by paying them. "But pay with money but with a trip to Walt Disney World."

The idea, he said, would be to give the kids something they could look forward to but which they would lose if they failed to continue with their share of the work.

WMD releases study results

Results of a study to evaluate the quality of water being backpumped into Lake Okeechobee from a portion of the 700,000-acre agricultural lands to the South were released by the South Florida Water Management District Governing Board at its regular meeting Friday.

Technical Publication #78-3, "Water Quality in the Everglades Agricultural Area (EAA) and its Impact on Lake Okeechobee," details the District's part of a cooperative two-year program between the District and the Florida Sugar Cane League. This study had been prompted by prior research conducted by the District, United States Geological Survey and other agencies which had verified that the two basins contributing the greatest amounts of nutrients to the Lake were the Taylor Creek-Nubbin Slough Basin and the EAA. Lake Okeechobee is vital to South Florida's water management and supply system; it serves diversified recreational interests, and provides water storage, irrigation and flood control for surrounding areas, including the EAA. The highly productive agricultural area produces sugar cane as its major crop and also contains significant pasture lands and vegetable crops. During the wet season (May to October) the agricultural lands are drained by pumps to protect the area from flooding. The excess water in the northern third of the EAA is then pumped into Lake Okeechobee.

Continuous loadings of nutrients, such as phosphorus and nitrogen found in agricultural runoff, can speed up the eutrophication process in the lake. The purpose of the District/League study was to establish the quantities of nutrients being discharged into Lake Okeechobee through all sources of water flowing into the Lake, including rainfall.

Fred Davis, Director of Water Chemistry for the District, explained, that, in general, the more phosphorus per acre received by a lake, the more eutrophic, or nutrient enriched, it could become. According to University of Florida studies, a maximum of 2.5 lbs. per acre per year is a desirable level of phosphorus that could be allowed to enter a lake.

"Lake Okeechobee has an average of 2.8 lbs. per acre of phosphorus flowing into it yearly," said Davis. "That is 10 percent above the permissible level, but below the dangerous rate, from all sources including rainfall."

Of the 596 tons of phosphorus entering the Lake, 96 tons came from direct rainfall. The Kissimmee River Basin contributed less phosphorus per acre than any inflow source other than rainfall. As expected, the Taylor Creek-Nubbin Slough Basin was the most significant phosphorus contributor. According to Davis, the problems in that Basin are well on their way to being addressed through the District's participation in the Coordinating Council on the Restoration of the Kissimmee River and Taylor Creek-Nubbin Slough Basin and its Uplands Detention project to improve water quality.

The EAA also was found to be a substantial contributor to the excess phosphorus loadings to the Lake. Recommendations to reduce loadings entering the Lake from this source were presented by Davis and included:

- Adopting water management quality criteria for the Lake and its tributaries.
- Expanding Lake Okeechobee water quality studies.
- Reviewing and refining drainage practices of District and private pumping facilities in the EAA to possibly reduce total flow into the Lake.
- Evaluating engineering, environmental and economic feasibility of additional or alternative reservoirs to store EAA runoff.
- Analyzing all inflow basins to determine the most cost effective methods for reducing phosphorus loadings within each basin.

Copies of Technical Publication #78-3 are available at no cost to the public by writing the South Florida Water Management District, P.O. Box V, West Palm Beach, FL 33402.

Also available from District is an overview containing a summary of the 78-3 and the proposed action recommendations. The District staff will be seeking comments on the recommendations and overview from federal and state agencies, the scientific community and the public before asking the Board to accept a final set of recommendations in September.

E.F. Hutton moves office to Belle Glade to serve residents

Sory had an idea to open an office here in the Glades since he knows it is a potential area, so he spoke with Gordon Gaster, the man in charge of all offices in Martin and Palm Beach Counties and Gaster recognized the potential in this area and had Sory contact Bougare, since he wanted to open an office here also.

Bougare had been a broker with E.F. Hutton for a couple of years and together with Sory they opened the new office.

E.F. Hutton is a world wide agency with over 120 offices in the United States and Europe. Women's league gets exciting as upsets are order of the day

By Karen Hansford

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Women's Softball League was packed with excitement last week as several upsets were pulled in games dominating in offense.

Wallis Pharmacy squared off against South Bay Growers in the second game of a doubleheader played Tuesday, July 11, at the Belle Glade ballpark.

The Wallis batters jumped on South Bay Growers for seven runs in the third inning enroute to a 12-4 victory, giving South Bay its first loss of the season.

South Bay led off with one run by Mary Lou Stevens in the first inning, then Wallis came back in the bottom of the inning when Karen Hansford rapped a line shot past first base for a triple, knocking in Jo Phelps. Hansford scored later on Donna Akin's hit.

Both teams relied on defense in the second, with three consecutive outs made by each. The third inning proved to be the turning point as the Wallis bats brought seven runs around to lead, nine to one.

It wasn't until the sixth inning when either team could score again. Celia Sullivan whacked a three-base hit into center field to score two runs for South Bay, and then went on home on Loretta Pugh's single. That wasn't enough, however, as Wallis added another three runs in the bottom of the inning and then held South Bay in the last inning to win, 12-4.

In the first game, Susie Rives doubled and then scored the go-ahead run for Local 2152 as the team held on to an 11-10 triumph over Dixie Fried Chicken for Local's first win of the year.

The lead bounced back and forth as Local led off with four runs to Dixie Fried's three. Dixie Fried went ahead with two in the second inning, holding Local to no gain.

Wanda McMillan and Sara Rives rounded the bases as Local tied the game in the third inning, against Dixie Fried's lone run, making it 6-6. Both teams added two in the fourth and fifth to keep it even, then the winning run for Local came in the sixth and last inning for a final score of 11-10.

In last Thursday's games played in Canal Point, the Bank of Pahokee surprised Local 2152 when Annette Mills and Wanda Crawford doubled for two of the team's four runs in the last inning to edge by Local, 16-15. The triumph marked the Bank of Pahokee's first against five losses.

Taking advantage of six hits, including a double by Lisa Scott, Local score seven runs in the first inning to Bank of Pahokee's three. Lisa Logan slammed a triple into right field for one of the three.

Linda Mims crossed the plate to add a run for Local in the second inning, while Bank of Pahokee brought in two on Logan's double in the third to make it eight to five. Local lengthened the gap again in the fourth inning, scoring two runs while holding the opposition to three straight outs.

Bank of Pahokee pulled up again as Joy Moon, Kary Niesen and Cindy Riddle each singled and then rounded the bases to make it 10-8 after five innings.

The game became tighter as Local's runners added three in the top of the sixth, then Bank of Pahokee came back with four, one of them a double by Joy Moon, to make it 13-12, Local's favor.

The windfall came in the last inning for Bank of Pahokee, when, after holding Local to only two runs, the batters got hot for the four runs to win the game, 16-15.

In the second game, South Bay Growers got off to a quick start with five runs in the first inning against Community United Methodist Church's (CUMC) one, and then added two each in the fourth and sixth innings for a nine to seven victory.

CUMC's main offensive thrusts also came in those innings, with three in the fourth and two in the sixth period of play. Sharon Humphrey's double in the fourth was the only multi-base hit of the game. South Bay's defense controlled the game, allowing only four errors the entire game.

Judy Abner was the leading scorer for South Bay Growers, accounting for three of the runs. The win upped the team's record to six wins and one loss.

League Standings as of 7/14/78: South Bay Growers, 6-1; First Baptist Church, 3-1; Miami Herald, 4-2; Wallis Pharmacy, 3-2; CUMC, 4-3; Dixie Fried Chicken, 1-4; Local 2152, 1-5; Bank of Pahokee, 1-5.

Chem Air overcomes Hatton for tourney win

Sports

PAHOKEE—Broiling sun interspersed with bouts of rain kept the atmosphere changing to keep up with the changing tide of winning and losing teams over the weekend. It was touch and go for a while but Pahokee's Chem Air Spray took the top spot in the quad-city invitational softball tournament held on Pahokee's field Friday through Sunday.

Pahokee's Hatton Brothers took the second place trophy followed by Moore Haven's Peoples Brothers Ranch at third and Clewiston's Cleghorn Dairy at fourth.

The home run derby trophy was awarded to Hank Andreis of Clewiston who knocked three balls out of the ball park in ten pitches.

Teams participating in the tournament came from Belle Glade, Pahokee, Clewiston and Okeechobee. It was sponsored by the Pahokee Men's Softball League. Profits from the tournament, an estimated $500, will go to the Pahokee High School Girl's track and field program.

The double elimination tournament play started Friday afternoon and by Sunday, only the top four teams were in the running. As Peoples Brothers Ranch lost a 17-4 battle with Chem Air Spray, it wall all up to Hatton Brothers and Chem Air.

Hatton Brothers, the only undefeated team at that point, saw their top position slip by as Chem Air pulled out an 8-6 victory. Dwayne Doney's home run hit brought in the winning scorers giving each team one loss.

Chem Air Spray's only loss was to Hatton Brothers, also coincidentally 8-6 in a previous game. But in the final bout, Chem Spray again retaliated with a 9-5 defeat to Hatton Brothers, winning the number one position in the tournament.

Royal's dropped only two games enroute to a 10-win record, losing to A. Duda and Sons and Everglades Farm Equipment.

An end of the season pool party was given for the girls at the Everglades Athletic Club. A first place team trophy was presented to Royal's, second place went to Everglades Farm Equipment, and A. Duda and Sons received a third-place trophy. Participation trophies were given to Nu Kappa Sorority and People's Federal.

These trophies were in turn given to the sponsor of each team.

Certain players were also honored on each team for their sportsmanship, fair play and all-around effort.

Those players receiving trophies for sportsmanship were Barbie Taylor of Royals, Laura Stone of Everglades Farm Equipment, Tammy Scruggs of A. Duda and Sons, and Janet Warren of Nu Kappa.

Miami Herald is second at Brighton

By Karen Hansford

BELLE GLADE—The local women's team of Miami Herald placed second in the Brighton Women's Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament held in the Brighton Indian Reservation this past weekend.

The girls had to win six games, three of them back-to-back, enroute to the second place honors. One of the games was a 10-inning match against the team of Flaheating Bay Village of Lakeport, in which Miami Herald came out on top.

Miami Herald played the first game at 9 a.m. Saturday morning, defeating an Indian team from Hollywood. After resting a game, the team lost out to Bronson Farms of Moore Haven by a score of 14-11, then struggled to stay in the tournament by beating the Lakeport team.

From then on it was a struggle, as the girls pulled from behind to edge by Merle Norman of Okaloosa and then triumphed over second-ranked Bronson Farms.

The victory over Bronson Farms knocked them out of the tournament. They had previously lost only to the Brighton Redskins. It also entitled Miami Herald to challenge the undefeated Redskins in a game which began at approximately 1 a.m., directly after the other two games. They succumbed to the Brighton Redskins, 27-13.
